

JANE'S WORK WITH THE MARCH OF DIMES

For the last several years, I had worked with the March of Dimes WalkAmerica and always asked God's guidance whether to continue. Not getting any answers about this year's walk, I had almost decided that my first priority had to be to Mother and my family and that maybe I did not have the time for the March of Dimes this year. The second week of February, Mother received a Valentine's Card from a friend who had taken piano lessons from her 40 years ago. There was a two-page Christmas letter enclosed that said in part, "We did not hear from you at Christmas and hope all is well," and, "I am in my 25th year as a speech-language pathologist at a school." I called Mother's friend and she was wonderful in giving us astute advice on helping Mother with speech therapy exercises. God did hear my request. That one card with its accompanying letter and the resulting help made me realize that I could find the time to keep Mother my first priority and continue working with the March of Dimes.
